SUMMARY

Currently, I am a Statistics PhD candidate at the Yildiz Technical University, Turkey. Prior to joining this university, I had my master's degree from the Dokuz Eylul University, Turkey, and a bachelor's degree from the University of Cape Coast, Ghana. My interests include applications of survival analysis in Medicine, sequential decision processes (Markov Decision Processes), and the use of R and Python as statistical programmable tools to studying complex models. At present, I am working on my dissertation entitled: "Applications of Survival Analysis in Medicine: Bayesian and Frequentist Approaches". I am also a member of the Bayesian statistics group in the department of Statistics – a group that seeks to use novel concepts of Bayesian statistics to shape decision making. For part-time, I engage in freelancing on Fiverr on problems related to web scraping, data mining and many more.

EDUCATION ___

YILDIZ TECHNICAL UNIVERSITY, ISTANBUL-TURKEY

Ongoing

PHD IN STATISTICS

• Applications of Survival Analysis in Medicine: Bayesian and Frequentists Approaches (Prof.Dr. Filiz Karaman)

DOKUZ EYLUL UNIVERSITY, IZMIR-TURKEY

2016-2019

M.RES IN STATISTICS

• Markov Decision Process in Inventory Management (Prof.Dr. Umay Koçer)

UNIVERSITY OF CAPE COAST, GHANA

2009-2013

B.Sc in Statistics

EXPERIENCE

SCHOOL OF ANAESTHESIA

2013-2015/ KATH - Ghana
